To whom it may concern

Recently, Robin Deal shared biblical principles in the areas of budgeting and borrowing money to a group of our staff after one of our monthly days of prayer. He also presented the ministry of Liberty Trust, which generated some good questions. It was obviously a new concept for most of us – but a very attractive one!

I was impressed with the fact that things were presented from a biblical perspective. So often we separate issues of money from our faith, yet Jesus talked a lot about money. It is exciting to see that groups like Liberty Trust are helping people integrate kingdom values into their borrowing and buying decisions.

I warmly recommend Robin and the team, and pray that this information finds the widest possible audience.

Sincerely in Christ
